The Rebel menu offers delivery or pick up
Delivery: We will deliver the food to location and instruct you on set up. It is your responsibility to get all borrowed items back to the catering office one business day after the event. If there are any lost or damage items there will be an additional cost associated with this. Student groups are also required to clean up the facilities and place it back in its original state.

Pick Up: Will follow the same rules of delivery, except the student organization group is responsible for picking up the catering order at the time requested on the catering information sheet. If the group is late they are required to contact a catering coordinator and maybe to be subjected to a late fee.

If there is no one there to answer, you may leave a message and someone will get back to you as soon as possible. Phone orders are highly effective if you are unsure of what you want to order and how many you should order for.

2. Via Email. You may place a catering order via email at [unlv catering@unlv.edu](mailto:unlv catering@unlv.edu). Like phone orders you may place an email order at any time. The Sales office checks their emails regularly during the day.

3. Via Fax. (702)-895-5690. There is a fax machine located in the Sales office to accommodate all fax orders and confirmations. If you are aware of catering needs this option is highly recommended.

Note: if placing an order either through email or fax please make sure the order has your contact information (telephone, address and fax), time, date and location of the event, head count and a detailed description of your menu.
